Executive Bio:

My name is Norman Sheehan, and I would like to volunteer my skills to enhance the governance of the board with the aim of improving accessibility for all Canadian pickleball players. To that end, I have nine years of board experience from member focused organizations desiring to prosper and grow. I bring to the board table the following competencies: strong accounting and finance skills as a CPA, and strategy, risk, performance measurement expertise honed as a Professor at the Edwards School of Business, University of Saskatchewan. In addition, I earned a professional governance designation from Institute of Corporate Directors (ICD) and am currently the Academic Director for the Saskatchewan Director Education Program, facilitated by the ICD with the Rotman School of Business. In that program, I teach sessions to directors on executive board oversight of risk, strategy, and stakeholder issues. I also understand the best board, HR and compensation practices.
